BROKE UP THE HABIT.

A Woman Who Found a Simple Remedy For a Big Annoyance.

"What has become of those two children who visited you so often?" asked one west side woman of another. The other smiled discreetly.

"They are the children of my niece, and she was making a convenience of me. Of course I love the children, but I never allow myself to become much of a victim of imposition. My niece is an extremely gay young widow, and she does not like to take care of her children. She is fond of shopping, matinees, afternoon teas and everything, in short, which takes her away from home, and she got into a habit of sending her children over to my house for me to take care of whenever she wished to gad about. I decided it was time to break up the habit, for her own good and that of the children, as well as mine, so I did."

"I suppose that made your niece angry?"

"Oh, no; it couldn't. I never said anything about it. The last time the children came over I spent the afternoon teaching them verses from the Bible, and they didn't find it sufficiently entertaining. They never came back. Just how they managed to work it out with their mother I do not know, but I suppose they struck or begged off. Of course she could not object to what I had done, and it proved a very simple solution."—New York Press.

AN ASTOR DEAL.

The Only Time That Old John Jacob Sold Real Estate.

"One of the most stringent real estate rules of the Astor family is 'never sell,' and only one sale is recorded in the entire life of old John Jacob Astor," said Niles F. Watkins, a real estate broker of New York. "In 1830 Astor tore down his house in Broadway, cleared the whole block from Vesey to Barclay street and built the huge Quincy granite hotel known as the Astor House, which was one of the first notable landmarks in New York and also one of the best paying pieces of property.

"A few days after it was finished the old gentleman and his eldest son, William, were walking through City Hall park, where the postoffice now stands, and stopped a moment to admire the building, the finest hotel in America at that time.

"'Pop, that's a mighty fine building,' said William. 'I wish to gracious it was mine.'

"'So?' answered the father. 'Well, Billy, give me $1 and you can have it.'

"Out came the dollar—a big silver dollar that is cherished by the family to this day—and within an hour the deed of the property was made out and recorded. This was old Mr. Astor's only sale of real estate in his life."—Washington Herald.

A Solomon-like Decision.

A Rhode Island justice was called upon to determine the ownership of a brood of turkeys. The flock, consisting of fifteen young ones, was mothered by two hens, a white one and a bronze, and had been running for quite a time over two adjoining farms. The owner of the white hen declared that the turkeys were his, while the man who owned the bronze hen asserted just as positively that they belonged to him. The justice was puzzled. At last a witness came forward who swore that he had seen a dog chase the flock; that at the dog's approach the young birds flew up into a tree and the bronze hen took to the woods, but the white hen turned and gave battle to the dog. The justice thereupon decided that the owner of the white hen was also the rightful owner of the brood of young turkeys.—New York Press.

A Woman's Wit.

The husband of Lydia Childs was an invalid for many years. He was not well off in this world's goods, and much of the support of the family was earned by the wife. Thinking of this and of his wife's many sacrifices for his comfort, Mr. Childs once said to her regretfully, "My dear, I wish I were Croesus."

Whereupon Mrs. Childs, with ready wit and gracious tact, responded, "You are Croesus, for you are king of Lydia."—Los Angeles Times.

Imaginary Pains.

Don't laugh at hysterical people with their imaginary pains, says a physician. A "delusion" is reality to the sufferer. When one believes one has a pain one has the pain. All pain is in the brain, and to believe one has it is to have it. It matters not a whit whether the message is sent by one's toe that some kind friend is treading on or whether it is sent from one part of the brain to another.—New York Tribune.

Unmoved.

"I understand your antagonist is calling you every name he can think of?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum cheerily. "But he hasn't much of a vocabulary."—Washington Star.

Much In Little.

Tommy—Pop, what does multum in parvo mean? Tommy's Pop—Multum in parvo is Latin, my son. It means—er—well, haven't you ever seen a fat woman in a bathing suit?—Philadelphia Record.

Distinction.

Always Answered.

Children often are highly logical, though not quite in the adult manner. They attain conclusions by those processes of "pure reason" which, being quite unbiased by the opinions of others, sometimes result in startling truths.

Almost everybody, for instance, has heard of the little lad who, listening to the questions of an irreligious friend of the family as to what would happen supposing that one good Christian should pray for an east and another for a west wind at sea, innocently answered that of course there'd be an awful tempest, but not every one has heard of the equally pertinent and naive solution recently offered by a thoughtful youngster for the ever perplexing problem of "Are prayers answered?"

The child was talking with another, who asked the vexed and puzzling question, explaining at the same time that he didn't believe that prayers were answered, because he never got anything he asked for.

"You don't pray for the right things," answered little Mr. Wiseman. "Of course all prayers are answered, but sometimes the answer is 'Yes' and sometimes it's 'No.'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Leaving a Man Helpless.

"That statement made me think," said a veteran newspaper man to the Cincinnati Times-Star, "of the celebrated row between President Cleveland's colored man and Secretary Hoke Smith's colored man. The two were exercising their masters' horses out on a country road and got into a dispute as to what is the best thing in the world. Finally they made a bet of a dollar on it.

"'Well, what is de bes' thing in the world?' asked Cleveland's man.

"'Roas' possum and sweet taters,' said Hoke Smith's moke.

"'Whoa!' says Cleveland's man, dragging at the bridle. He jumped to the ground, seized Hoke Smith's man by the leg and dragged him to the dust.

"'Take that,' says he, lamming him on the neck, 'you miserable black rascal! You ain't leave me nuffin' to guess at!'"

Brain of the Bee.

In a German scientific periodical C. Jonescu gives the results of his studies of the brain of the bee. As might be expected from its wonderful instincts, this is found to be very complex. The various divisions of the brain are described in detail, but perhaps the most interesting part is the comparison of the brains of queens, workers and drones. The worker has a larger brain than the queen, and as the difference between queen and worker is the result of diet during the grub stage it appears that the food which develops size of body and fertility is not best for the growth of brain. The "royal jelly" as a mental stimulus is a failure. In the drone the brain is not larger than in the worker, but the optic lobes are large, corresponding to the large eyes.

Didn't Wait the Attack.

At Boulogne during a royal reception some years ago a number of English ladies in their anxiety to see everything pressed with such force against the soldiers who were keeping the line that the soldiers were forced to give way and generally were, as policemen say, "hindered in the execution of their duty." The officer in command, observing the state of affairs, called out: "One roll of the drum! If they don't stand back kiss them all!" After the first sound of the drum the ladies took to flight.

"If they had been French," said a Parisian journal, "they would have remained to a woman."

A Tale of Heroism.

"I went for a bath yesterday," said an Auvergnat. "I had been in the water some time when I suddenly perceived an enormous shark advancing toward me with its jaws open. What was I to do? When he was a yard off I dived, took out my pocketknife and ripped up the monster."

"What! Then you are in the habit of bathing with your clothes on," said one of the listeners.—From the French.

Perplexing.

Territorial (his first experience as sentry, going over his instructions)—If any one comes along I say: "Halt! Who goes there?" Then he says, "Friend," and I say, "Pass, friend; all's well." But some silly ass'll say, "Enemy," and then I shan't know what to do. Rotten job, I call it.—Punch.

Indignant.

The mayor of a small town had come to Leipzig to see the fair. A stranger who had lost his way asked him, "Pray, good honest man, what is the name of this street?"

"I am not a good honest man," said the former; "I am the mayor of Marburg."

Distinction, if No Difference.

"Why do you want to marry my daughter?"

"I'm no object of charity; I wouldn't accept your money in any other way."—New York Press.

Superfluous.

Rollingstone Nomoss Wot does "superfluous" mean? Tatterdon Toru A bath robe an' a cake of soap.—Philadelphia Record.

Queer, but the man who doesn't need credit is the one who can most easily get it.—Portland Express.

TESTNG FIRE CLAY.

The Most Practical Method Is to Literally Eat It.

Fire clay has been in use for centuries, and yet I believe the industry is one which lacks definite laws more than any other, including those which are either modern or ancient and of less prominence. You can go to a manufacturer of steel and specify what you want by actual figures or statements and you can check the product by chemical analysis or mechanical tests and thus make sure you get what you need. The producer knows how to combine certain elements and what quantities of various kinds to combine in order to get a result at least very closely approaching what you call for, but not so in the fire clay business. In the past the most skilled and highest salaried chemists have been employed to make tests, to promote and carry through investigations on the natural product and to study the workings of certain manufactured and elaborated articles derived therefrom. The result has been, generally speaking, confusion worse confounded. Two professors, working at similar times on brick or clay obtained from the same source and manufactured under exactly equal conditions, have recorded diametrically opposed conclusions! The same scientists at different periods have reached vastly varying conclusions when testing identical qualities and shapes of bricks, so can you wonder if a prominent fire clay manufacturer should exclaim, as I heard one on an occasion after having the above experience, "All tests of fire clay are empirical, and I would sooner trust our superintendent to pick and select his clays in the old fashioned way than pay a high fee for a highbrow's recommendations?" The chief method of testing fire clay by a practical man is literally to eat it. He can detect grit and sand best by that method, and a good fire clay (free from silica, quartzite or flint clay) is free from grit. His only other personal test is by experiment.—Engineering Magazine.

A CHINESE BANQUET.

Culinary Mysteries That Bewildered an Englishwoman.

One moment we were eating ducks' eggs whose blackened, lime flavored whites indicated that their age was unimpeachable; the next we were grappling with sea weeds, macaroni and the slippery sharks' fins that eluded our clumsily manipulated sticks. Now we tackled—not without fear—unknown meats and vegetables cooked in sugar, fresh shrimps, mushrooms from Mongolia, young bamboo sprouts, pigeons' eggs and a hundred different foreign tasting messes. Then clean plates were given to us, and bowls of sickly pink sirup, sweet potato and Indian corn cakes of dusky hue were set before each one. These were only crevice fillers and concluded the first and lighter portion of the repast. Now came the real substantial meal, wherein every dish had an accompaniment of smaller ones, containing gravies, etc., in which to dip the morsel taken from the central bowl.

There was stewed duck cooked without salt, roast sucking pig, forcemeat balls and chicken; there were soups of birds' nest, of mushroom, of vegetables and of sea slugs. There was grilled fresh water fish, which, according to custom, was helped from the top side only, for the Chinese remembers his servant. And, finally, at the conclusion the inevitable small bowl of rice and rice water was set before each person.

After some three hours, with a feeling of thankfulness that all was over, pipes, cigarettes and tea were served, and it seemed to me that the delicious aroma which rose from the latter soothed our senses and almost dispelled the antipathy that had been growing on us for all things Chinese.—Mary Moore in London Express.

The Kind Needed.

"Dear me," said the first young woman, taking her initial lesson in golf, "what shall I do now? This ball is in a hole!"

"Well, let me see," said her companion, rapidly turning the leaves of a book of instructions. "I presume you will have to take a stick of the right shape to get it out."

"Oh, yes; of course," was the somewhat cynical reply. "Well, see if you can find one shaped like a dustpan and brush."—New York Tribune.

Kissing In Iceland.

Among old time laws against kissing those of Iceland appear to have been the most severe. Banishment was the penalty laid down for kissing another man's wife, either with or without her consent. The same punishment was enforced for kissing an unmarried woman against her will; if it could be proved that she had consented to be kissed the offender was still liable to a fine of a great quantity of cloth for each offense.

A Startling Reply.

An English country bookseller sent to London for a copy of a book called "Happy Husbands." The work was out of print, but the wholesale agent certainly might have intimated the fact differently. He replied that "There are no 'Happy Husbands' in London."—London Tit-Bits.

Best Intentions.

Mamma—Johnny, what is the baby yelling about? Johnny—Nothin'. I jest took his milk and showed him how to drink it.—Cleveland Leader.

THE SUFFRAGETTE

The impression one gets from accounts of the suffragette campaign being waged in England does not tend to convince the average American that the women across the pond who seek emancipation would make very desirable citizens. Tact and policy and the thousand and one resources through which women contrive to win their points have been lost sight of (if they really have figured) in the general rowdyism which seems to characterize the English movement. Despite the prominence given to such incidents as the attack upon Prime Minister Asquith, we are loathe to believe that the element which instigated that melee is the only one interesting itself in woman's rights. There have been several good and sane measures put through the proper channels for the betterment of women wage earners throughout the British Isles, and legislation such as this seems to indicate a conservative and womanly interest in the affairs of the weaker sex there which is out of harmony with the element which prefers to pose its martyrs. Women there as here probably realize that they could be more active factors in affairs of state if they were granted rights of suffrage, but the activity of the much lampooned suffragette is neither to be commended nor admired.

THE GENIAL CREED

Christianity is radiating an enticing glow when its disciples express themselves in words such as filled the sermon of the Rev. W. C. Peters in a San Francisco pulpit last Sunday :

"If you want to make a man feel a flutter in the region of his heart, lay your hand on his shoulder in a friendly sort of way. Be not simply good; be good for something. The world is full of good people—goody-good, so goody-good that they are good for nothing. Don't go to heaven alone. Do something for somebody, and be quick about it. Your joy in heaven will be to know that, like Jesus, you have borne messages of help to the downcast; that you have been lovely to the lowly, and that you have assisted some climber up and on, and dropped some smiles."

Heney and the graft prosecution have received another setback in their scheme to send respectable people to jail in order to throw the protecting garb of immunity about a boodling board of supervisors, a corrupt mayor and their go-between, Abe Ruef. On Wednesday last the State Supreme Court reversed the judgment and order in the case of Louis Glass, convicted of bribery on the evidence of boodling supervisors who had been granted immunity by Heney to testify against him and who as a matter of course would swear to anything to save their own hides. The opinion of the higher court concurs in that of the District Court of Appeals, when that tribunal reversed Judge Lawlor. With the opinion of the Supreme Court, which will force Ruef to the penitentiary for fourteen years, and this latest reversal by the same tribunal, which in our humble opinion is but an act of justice to an innocent victim of the graft prosecution, Heney, who would grant freedom to the self-confessed Ruef in order to convict responsible business men of San Francisco, has received a severe rebuke.

The Index-Tribune from the very inception has maintained that Dr. Cook, alleged discoverer of the north pole, was a fakir. The doctor, who has been sequestered in Europe the past year, now comes out of hiding and acknowledges he lied and admits he is willing to startle the world by making the admission. This disposes of Dr. Cook. Now how about T. R.

Much to the disappointment of the woman folks who accompany California's statesmen to Sacramento when the legislature is in session, Governor-elect Johnson has announced there will be no inaugural ball. And now the glad rags of the buds and grand dames must be set aside for some other function.

The San Francisco Sun, which shone so brilliantly for the Democratic party during the recent political campaign, has set forever. It suspended publication last Tuesday after a precarious existence of three months.

Matrimony—What Is It?

Matrimony is the joint stock company which the minister promoteth as a side line and a lawyer throweth into bankruptcy with the feminine stockholder as the preferred creditor.

It is the boot which persuadeth a girl to swap a hundred-dollar salary for a forty-dollar man. 'Tis a neck yoke which maketh two collars to chafe as one.

Matrimony is ascribed to softening of the brain or heart or purse itch. Exactly what causes it the Lord only knows, but time will tell—when it is too late.

By matrimony the optimist expecteth to get a silent partner who feareth not the cook nor staying alone at night. The pessimist hopeth only to dodge the suffragette when he maketh his choice and to escape with light alimony.

The benefits of matrimony are many (saith the promoter). For mending broken nobility it is without a rival. Through it a man acquires a good cook and housekeeper—sometimes. And a woman obtaineth a meal ticket—occasionally. And when she does, although issued for life, she frequently loseth it before it expireth.

Matrimony resulteth variously—in happiness, trouble and even children. The latter, though the least frequent, seem to be the most dreaded.

Is matrimony a failure? The neighbor on your right hand saith, "Yea, it is hell." And the one on thy left, "Nay, it is heaven." And verily both are wrong. It is earth.

In the blessed realm there is no marrying nor giving up alimony. Angels, being wise, are prudently fearful. Whereby only by rushing in and investigating for ourselves can we learn what matrimony hath in store for us.

Brethren, let us take a chance. —Smart Set.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance for advancement. The National Telegraph Institute of Portland, Ore., operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write for full details.

The board of supervisors will meet in December session next Monday.

Regular monthly song services at the Congregational church next Sunday morning.

Eph. Weiss, the expert refracting optician of San Francisco, will be in Sonoma at the Union Hotel December 2.

Ground has been broken on the Duhring-Ryland lot on Napa street for the new moving picture show house.

The Sonoma Brewing Company has installed a double action oil pump to take the place of a Staples & Pffifer pump, which failed to give satisfaction.

Ex-Supervisor Armstrong of this county, who resigned his office and removed to Oregon a year ago, has been elected a county commissioner by a plurality of 300. The office is similar to that of supervisor.

The result of the basket ball game played in Union Hall Friday evening of last week between the boys of the Napa and Sonoma high schools resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 19 to 22. The game was an exciting one from start to finish.

The next regular meeting of the city trustees will take place on Wednesday evening. Many matters of public interest will come up for discussion, among them being the septic tank sewer system and farm for which $20,000 in bonds was voted last summer. The trustees expect to start work on the sewer system when the winter and spring rains are over.

COUNTY NEWS ITEMS

Mrs. Throop, a pioneer woman of Sonoma county, is dead at her home in Annapolis in the northern part of the county.

Ben Ballard, the gentlemanly and obliging deputy county clerk, has been elected worshipful master of Santa Rosa Lodge F. & A. M., an honor most worthily bestowed.

Dyamiters attempted to rob the Windsor postoffice at an early hour Thursday morning. The combination on the safe door was blown out, but the burglars were frightened off before they could finish their nefarious work.

Mrs. Jessie Duerson of Petaluma filed a petition on Monday asking the superior court to terminate the life estate of the late Jennett A. Watts to certain real property. This property is known as the Richard Watts place and is situated in Vallejo township.

The 25,000 gallons of wine of last year's vintage and 40,000 of this year's that remained in the possession of Mrs. J. Bertossi of Geyserville was sold by her recently at ten cents a gallon. Mrs. Bertossi still has 2000 gallons of wine which she will hold for local consumption.

The divorce mill of the county received three new grists last Thursday, the plaintiffs being women in each instance. Mrs. Blanche Burt, Mrs. Ida P. Smith and Mrs. Hattie Watts are the complainants and their grounds for throwing off the matrimonial yoke are cruelty and failure to provide.

Jack Barker, a native of this county, has returned here in his search for his long lost mother. The account of his separation from her was detailed at some length recently in a metropolitan newspaper. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Carrillo of Petaluma are aiding the young man in every way they can in his hunt for his mother. He has not seen her since he was an infant, at which time his parents parted, and he has not heard from her for ten years. His mother has since married and is named Mrs. Caroline Dodson.

EMMA FETTERS' SUIT AGAINST LEVY

The Matter of Dispossessing an Undesirable Tenant in Hands of Judge Seawell.

The suit instituted in Judge Seawell's department of the superior court of this county by Mrs. Emma Fetters, owner of the Eleda Hot Springs, against Morris Levy, who has a five year lease on the premises, to break the lease for alleged violation of its provisions, is now in the hands of Judge Seawell for decision.

The case from start to finish was stubbornly contested by opposing counsel and as a result it took four days to try the case, which at the outset was calculated to consume but two days at the most. Many witnesses were examined both for and against the defendant.

The attorneys for Mrs. Fetters were H. P. Mathewson of this city and W. F. Cowan of Santa Rosa. Hon. Thomas J. Geary represented Mr. Levy.

The decision of Judge Seawell is being looked forward to with interest by the people of the valley, who are well acquainted with both parties to the suit.

John Ambrosini Cited to Appear in Superior Court

Mrs. Pauline Monaco, one of the widows of the late Felice Monaco, who died about two years ago, has petitioned the superior court for a citation against John Ambrosini, propietor of the Romo Hotel in this city, where Monaco passed away. In her petition Mrs. Monaco states she believes that Ambrosini has concealed certain property of the estate of her late husband, and she wants it. The property in question is alleged to be a gold ring, silver watch, pair of eye glasses and a gold chain.

Another Building Improvement

A. Castex, the enterprising proprietor of the Pioneer French City Bakery, has broken ground for a two-story stone building, which will be erected on the lot adjoining his bakery. The building will have a frontage of 28 feet on Napa street and will be 60 feet in depth. It will be built of white stone and will correspond with the bakery building, which is one of the finest store structures in town. The ground floor will be used for store purposes and the upper story for offices.

A Company That Does Things

The Sonoma Brewing Company, which was incorporated about a year ago, is free from debt and in a prosperous condition. A creamery will be added to the plant next fall, which will put in circulation in this city thousands of dollars annually. So far this year the company has paid out in wages alone over $10,000. Still there are some people in this town mean enough to knock an enterprise which means so much to the prosperity of both town and valley.

Christmas Entertainment

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church will hold their Christmas sale of fancy and useful rrticles at Union Hall Friday evening, Dec. 16. The entertainment will be in charge of the girls of the "Golden Hours Club," who will present the charming comedy, "Captain Joe of the Football Team." 18-2t

Odd Fellows Pay Fraternal Visit

A delegation of twelve brethren from Sonoma Lodge, No. 28, I. O. O. Sonoma in Line for a State Trade and Training School

The Wickersham place four miles southwest of this city was inspected last Saturday by Governor James N. Gillett, Attorney-General Webb and Senator Curtin, the commission appointed to select sites for the proposed State Trades and Training Schools.

Dr. Thomas Maclay, of the Wickersham banking house, and Thomas Baines, a real estate agent of El Verano, took the distinguished party over the ranch, which embraces 1500 acres.

It is an ideal location for a trades school and no doubt the commission, which seemed more than pleased with the site, will recommend it as one of the places to be chosen for the establishment of one of a series of training schools to be maintained by the state.

At a conference of the members of the commission held in Sacramento on Monday all the members were present, including Governor Gillett, Secretary of State Curry, Attorney General U. S. Webb, Secretary of State Board of Examiners B. B. Deming, Senator J. B. Curtin, Assemblyman E. L. Hawk and Major Norboe and F. K. Foster, who did much of the preliminary work looking toward a selection.

Although the members debated long and earnestly, carrying their deliberations over until well after midnight, they were not able to reach a final decision, and now report has it that the ultimate decision will not be reached for two weeks at least.

The selection has practically narrowed down to the two sites offered in Sonoma county and the one offered near Auburn in Placer county.

"It is not possible to make a definite forecast at this time," said Secretary Deming Tuesday, "because there is a possibility that something may come up that none of the sites now counted on will be accepted. We have to make some further soil tests and investigations, and there are a number of other things up for consideration. It is not likely that we will be able to take any action for a couple of weeks."

County Clerk-Elect Felt Appoints Chief Deputy

W. W. Felt, jr., the newly elected county clerk who will take possession of the office on January 1, has announced the appointment of Col. L. S. Winans of Petaluma as his chief deputy.

Mr. Felt's other deputies will be Arthur Cochran of Healdsburg, John Burroughs of Sebastapol and Will S. Saunders of Santa Rosa.

Plowing Suspended

Farmers are complaining of the dryness of the season and say that rain is badly needed to put the ground in condition for plowing and seeding. So far, less than four inches of rain has fallen this season and plowing, which is usually in full blast at this season of the year, is at a standstill on many of the farms in the valley for lack of moisture.

The Hay Market for the First Week in December

"The gradual decrease in arrivals of hay the past week," say Somers & Co., of San Francisco in thoir report on the condition of the hay market for the week ending November 29, "has resulted in but 2153 tons being marketed during the past week. This small quantity has been somewhat of a relief to the market, for there has been a great deal of difficulty recently in moving the hay which has been shipped in. Prices are no better, however, for consumers are well supplied and but comparatively few are in the market to buy. There is, however, a continued tendency on the part of the holders of hay in the country to look for better figures. The little rain which we have had in some parts of the state has been insufficient to do any good and it has only served to stimulate the dry weather talk and to cause many farmers to refuse to sell their hay until they are assured of a crop next season. We believe, however, that the people in whose hands the hay now is do not realize the immense bulk of hay which is available for market. Of course, a dry season would cause a materially increased consumption. However, we believe that there is sufficient hay now on hand to take care of the possible increased demand and still leave a large carryover into the next season.

"Alfalfa is firm, stocks being light, although the demand at the moment is not excessive.

Quotations for choice wheat hay are $11 to $13 and so on down the line to alfalfa at $7 to $12.50.

Mrs. Ayer is an expert needle woman and her intended departure is greatly regretted by Mr. and Mrs. Parrent, not only on that account, as she was a pleasant companion and a most amiable woman.

Foundation for a Rumor

The rumor circulated here that the First National Bank of Sonoma would soon be open for business in the new Masonic building has been traced up. It seems the rumor was started by one of our townsmen who saw a wagonload of wood being unloaded in the rear of the Masonic building and he took it for granted as a sure sign that the bank was a go. However, as banks are not started that way, and as our lodge rooms are made quite comfortable with hot air generated by stove wood, it can readily be seen that the rumor had no foundation in fact.

Rebekahs Still in Piano Contest

The Rebekahs wish to remind their friends that that they are still trying for the piano to be given away at the Yellow Front Drug Store, and will thank all in advance for certificates, which can be left at Lutgen's ice cream parlors or with R. R. Entleman. 2t

The Law-Abiding Farmer Prey of Reckless Hunters

At the opening of the hunting season as usual complaints of reckless hunters invading fields, orchards and vineyards reaches this office. Our farmers have long suffered from this cause and there is talk of forming an organization to protect their property from the small army of shot gun invaders from San Francisco and other places. This season promises to become more intolerable than ever and many of our farmers who have never done so before have resolved to post notices on their premises warning hunters to keep off under penalty of arrest and prosecution. For the most part local hunters have some regard for the property rights of the farmer and obtain his consent to shoot on his premises, but he appears to have no rights whatever which a city sport is bound to respect and it is not to his liking at all.

CALENDAR DAY IN SUPERIOR COURT

Matters Disposed of by Judges Seawell and Denny in the Departments Monday.

In Judge Seawell's department the following cases were disposed of on Monday, calendar day:

Laid In a Stock.

When the late Pierre Lorillard was a boy, his mother, being annoyed by moths that destroyed the woolen clothing and other material of the household, agreed to pay him a cent apiece for every moth he would kill in the house and bring to her. The same bargain was made with his brothers, Jake, George and Louis. In course of time Mrs. Lorillard noticed that, while the other children collected from her at intervals from 10 to 25 cents, Pierre drew on her frequently for a $1 at a time, indorsing his drafts with 100 dead moths. Investigation revealed the bent of the future financier as well as his early adaptability to methods governing the acquirement of wealth. Having procured from a furrier some pieces of fur thrown away because they were infested with moths, Pierre secreted them in an old chest in an unused closet. There the quickly accumulating moths were banked, to be drawn upon whenever the inventor and perfecter of the enterprise required pocket money.

Knighted Actors.

It is an odd fact that of the English actors knighted all but one had first to legalize the names under which they had won fame. The question arose with the first proposition to confer knighthood on a gypsy. It would be absurd so to honor one John Henry Brodribb. Yet legally no such person as "Henry Irving" existed. No such obstacle had to be overcome when, on the occasion of Victoria's diamond jubilee, Squire Bancroft knelt before his queen and arose sir squire. However, the three actors knighted by King Edward bore cognomens of their own invention. Sir Charles Wyndham was born Culverwell, and Sir John Hare, Fairs. As for Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, his brilliant wife once put it "'Tree' is a fantastic thing we just tacked on. We're all plain Beerbohms—plain as brother Max!"—Argonaut.

The Old English Prize Ring.

In the latter days of the English prize ring innumerable expedients had to be devised to bring off a fight. A favorite plan was to pitch the ring on the borders of two counties, so that the question of magisterial jurisdiction might be rendered difficult. Another plan was to charter a steamboat and proceed down the Thames to some lonely police forsaken spot in the marshes of Essex. For the memorable contest between Sayers and Heenan in 1860 a special train was run from London bridge to a secret destination. But the passengers, who comprised members of parliament, peers, pickpockets, pugilists, clergy and, it is said, a few bishops, cheerfully took tickets simply marked "excursion." They presently found themselves near Farnborough, in Surrey, where the fight occurred.—London Chronicle.

Original of Falstaff.

Sir John Fastolf was the original of Shakespeare's Falstaff and in his day was a continual butt for the jests of the town and borough of Southwark. Though he had fought at Agincourt, when Jack Cade invaded the borough, he showed great cowardice. When Cade was yet some way off Fastolf had armed and fortified his house and garrisoned it with veterans of the French wars. On the arrival of Cade, however, he withdrew his garrison and fled to the Tower, leaving his neighbors to the mercy of the rebels. Fastolf's matrimonial adventures seem also to have been another source of unpopularity, for, having married a widow named Scrope, he seized her property and kept his stepson out of his inheritance during his own lifetime.—London News.

"Great Expectations."

Charles Green, one of Dickens' illustrators, had two models, one of whom was a likable fellow, while the other, Gregory by name, was a greedy, self seeking character, always thinking of himself and his perquisites.

When Green was on his deathbed Gregory was very officious, and one day Green, noticing this, said to him:

"Oh, I haven't forgotten you, Gregory; got you down in my will."

At the funeral Gregory invested in a wreath and duly attended to hear the will read.

Green had kept his word, and the model was not forgotten.

"To my dear friend Gregory," ran the document, "I leave, for his kindness to me, an illustrated edition of 'Great Expectations.'"

Against His Principles.

"What was that man making such a fuss about?" asked the restaurant proprietor.

"He found a couple of hairs in the food, sir," replied the waiter.

"Oh, is that all?"

"You see, sir, he's a vegetarian, and you can't get him to eat anything but vegetables."—Yonkers Statesman.

Neatly Parried.

A mother of four daughters, one of whom had recently been married, cornered an eligible young man in the drawing room.

"And which of my girls do you most admire, might I ask?"

"The married one," was the prompt reply.—Exchange.

Easier.

"I'm going to the dentist's to have this tooth out. Just mind the baby till I come back." Husband (with alacrity)—You mind the baby, Jessie. I'll go and get a tooth pulled out!

Her Bait.

"You have to have different bait for different fish, don't you, ma?"

"I guess so. I know I caught a lobster with mistletoe."—New York Press.

Many Uses of Sand.

The sands of the sea are singularly useful. They are of primary importance in glassmaking. They have an important place in warfare, as a bank of sand twenty inches thick is proof against modern rifle shots. The electrical properties of sand show that it has positive electricity, although a rod of silica, the chief constituent of sand, is negative.

The singular drying effect which occurs when a stretch of wet sand is pressed by the foot is due entirely to an alteration in the piling of the sand grains. Normally the grains are close together, but abnormal piling is brought about by pressure of the foot, the space between the edges of the grains being enlarged and the water drained away. If the pressure of the foot is continued the sand becomes wetter than ever, the partial vacuum quickly bringing water from the surrounding sand.

In quicksand the moving character is thought to be due to the imprisonment between the grains of gases from organic matter.—Chicago Tribune.

Caught.

A shopwalker in a large business, noted for his severity to the assistants under him, one day stepped up to a counter from which a ladylike person had just left unserved.

"You let that lady leave without making any purchase?" he asked angrily of the meek looking young man responsible for the handkerchief department sales.

"Yes, sir. I"—

"And she was at your counter fully ten minutes?"

"Doubtless; but, then, you see"—

"Exactly. I saw that, in spite of all the questions she put to you, you rarely answered her and never attempted to get what she wanted."

"Well, but"—

"You need not make any excuse. I shall report you for carelessness."

"Well, I hadn't what she wanted?"

"What was that?"

"Five shillings. She was canvassing for subscriptions to an encyclopedia."—London Globe.

An Aquatic Tragedy.

When visitors came, Bobby was often turned out of his room and into the garret for a night or two. He did not object to this, but he felt that it endangered certain cherished possessions. When his uncle, the clergyman, arrived unexpectedly one night Bobby was transferred to his garret quarters in haste and with small ceremony, and neglected to take any precautions to guard his treasures.

"I have to thank the thoughtful person who placed a glass of water on the table near the bed last night," said the clergyman the next morning. "I awoke in the night and found it refreshing—most refreshing."

"Oh!" said Bobby, in a tone of sorrow and reproach. "You've drinked up my nice new 'quarium, and all"—

But here Bobby's revelation was suppressed by his mother.—Youth's Companion.

CRESCENT CITY A FORMIDABLE RIVAL

Timely Advice Is Given By the San Diego Union

The urgent necessity of united action by all California in the great fight to secure the Panama Exposition for San Francisco is set forth in a timely and carefully considered editorial in the San Diego Union as follows:

"At the outset it is well not to underestimate the strength of the movement for New Orleans. That city, it is true, has not made a very imposing financial showing as a candidate for exposition honors. It is relying for pecuniary support upon the State of Louisiana rather than upon itself. Its pretensions, too, have been the theme of not a little good-natured ridicule in the East as well as upon the Pacific Coast. Nevertheless, the time has come when California should fully recognize that the Crescent City is a formidable adversary. Its residents are full of enthusiasm for the exposition project. They are warmly supported by the people of their State, and, what is far more important, unless present indications are utterly misleading, the influence of most of the States east of the Rocky mountains will be thrown to the Southern city, if, indeed, it has not already been bestowed there.

"Against these odds the city of San Francisco could hardly hope to win single-handed, even though it doubled its preliminary exposition fund and pledged $17,500,000 instead of the $7,500,000 that has been subscribed. To obtain the recognition of Congress as the designated city for an exposition that shall worthily commemorate the opening of the Panama canal, San Francisco should have the combined support of the whole Pacific Coast. The first step to obtain that support should be to make sure of the backing of the entire State of California. New Orleans would cut no figure whatever as an aspirant for exposition honors, had that city failed to enlist the aid of Louisiana. San Francisco will be in a weak position unless California is behind it."
